WE HAVE COMPLETE LINES OF THE

"CHEST SHIELD UNDERSHIRT"

This undershirt opens in t ck, and is double both front and back (the dotted line in the cuts showing the portions made double), thus bringing the protection exactly where it is most needed, and affording safety from all pulmonary complaints incident to sudden changes of weather, etc. Experienced physicians claim that in our changeable climate an undershirt that is heavy enough to protect the lungs is too heavy and too heating over the abdomen, caused by numerous folds being tucked into the drawers. The CHEST SHIELD overcomes all this by having the lower part medium weight, the upper part double, thus securing an even temperature all over the body. We have them in scarlet and white, and in all grades. Try it and you will use none other, as it is decidedly the best undershirt that has yet been introduced, and costs you no more.

The "Chest Shield" in Scarlet is recommended particularly for its great anti-rheumatic qualities.

NINTH DAY OF THE SLICKENS CASE IN

River from Farly Days to Date-Effects of Sand and Sediment.

1850. Came to California in September, 1849. When I first came to the State I crossed the American river near where the Twelfth-street bridge now stands. It was a I there are the low-grade. The high-grade is nine feet above the low-grade. clear stream, with a hard, pebbly bottom.

The banks were very bluff, and from fifteen to twenty feet high. The bottom of the river Since that date, in time of high water, the was comparatively level and very firm. I constructed two buildings, in 1850, on the American river, at what was called White's ferry. That ferry was about opposite Twenty-eighth street. I noticed that the water of the American river became very muddy and was laden with slickens about 1862. I was Levee Commissioner of the City of Sacramento for Commissioner of the City of Sacramento for three years. I noticed particularly during that time the condition of the water and the channel of the American river. I found by observation that the river channel was FILLING UP RAPIDLY Each year, caused by the water bringing down large quantities of sand and sediment. It has been every year constantly filling up with sand. After 1862 the levees were built to the hight of four feet above high-wa'er mark, which would bring the levees to a hight, according to our gauge, of twenty-four feet. We found, a few years later, that the constant filling in of the channel necessitated our raising of the levees five feet higher. In 1851 and 1852 I resided in this city, not far from the present Court American, from the fact that the current House. I resided there until after the flood of 1862. During the floods of 1862, I went up the American river as far as Brighton that river flowed over the land. My Hoagland's house was thrown drown, and destroyed by the flood of last winter. I be stroyed by the flood of last winter. I be on a steamboat. The first high water in the came possessed of this property in 1874. on a steamboat. The first high water in the American usually socures out the channel for a few miles from the point where it empties into the Sacramento. The American usually rises several hours before the high water ecomes down the Sacramento. The deposit from the American the Sacramento of the Sac fills up all of the original channel of the Sacramento. The sawmill at the mouth of the American was in operation during the year 1853. Steamboats could get up very easily to the house hydrants. Remember the Loydall the mill. The water was clear and there was no obstruction to navigation. The water along the banks was from ten to fifteen feet deep at low water, and the banks rose twenty eet above that. From the mouth of the American river to the bridge the old channel is entirely filled with a saud-bar. This sandbar occupies a place where was formerly very deep water, and navigated by the largest ves. badly, and at one t moving down the river. I have noticed this onward movement of sand since the fo ds of 1862. The waters previous to that time were clear, and very good for all domestic purposes. In those days we did not have to filter the water. Now the river water is so laden with sediment and sand that it is unfif for domestic purposes unless it is settled or filtered. The filling up of the bed of the Sacramento river has almost destroyed the drainage of this city. The sipage water within the city increases each year, and the difficulty of getting rid of it also annually increases. A great many blocks in the lower portion of the city are submerged every winter by this sipage water, and sometimes we have to resort to pumping for three months at a time. All this trouble is caused by the filling up of the river changes and changed filling and down last winter. It was mixed with a down last wither. It was mixed with a down last wither. It was mixed with and would carry the buckets to the rocker, and the other wash it out, dipping up the water within the other wash it out, dipping up the water within the other wash it out, dipping up the water within the submit and would carry the buckets to the rocker, and the other wash it out, dipping up the water within the other wash it out, dipping up the water with a dipper. This was the orly kind of clay cobale stones, gravel and earth. At my place in 1853 the river banks were high and buff on the south; less so on the north, and the flow was a little riley ther, and the highest water known by any marks. Had more water then that within the ot is caused by the filling up of the river chan-nel. The sand deposits and channel fillings are destroying all of our natural and artificial drainage canals. The pumps have been used both at the R-street and Y-street levees. The Vestreet levee where the resulting through the Freeport levee as affecting through the Resulting through Y-street levee where the pumps were simulated is twenty feet wide on top and six or seven feet high. There was more water in the floods of 1862 than in those of 1867 or 1868.

The water-works were constructed in 1852 or 1853. Water was originally pumped into a large tank or reservoir. About eight years ago the Holly system was adopted, and now the water is pumped directing from the river into the mains. The water that comes down now is heavily laden with clay and sand. Witness here was about twenty feet deep. There was a rapid immediately above and a riffle just below my ferry. Between these two falls the water at low stages was comparatively still. During flood times it ran very swiftly. The water in 1858 was not one-half as muddy as it is at present. The water sin places, is ten feet shallower than when I first went there; in some places not so much. the last five or six years. It has been about eight years since I quit mining. I cannot see the river from my house. The last mining that I did was near the site of the old Gran-ite Mill, near Slate Bar hill. The earth on Slate Bar hill is of a red and gravelly nature. They began mining on Slate hill just as soon as the North Fork ditch was completed. This canal was quite large, and carried a great many inches of water. Slate Bar hill is about three quarters of a mile above where my ferry was located. There was considera ble mining done on that hill between 1856 and 1860. I mined there, but the debris from my claim was deposited on a large flat, and did not reach the river. There is a bar just below my place called Main bar. About the same amount of mining was done there as at the point I have been describing. The ground on Main bar was of a gravelly nature. I have seen ten or twelverun of sluices in operation

The site of my ferry was about a quarter of a mile below the bridge. Have been on Doten's Bar many bridge. Have been on Doten's Bar many times. It is about nine miles above Folsom. They get water to mine the bars from the North Fork canal. I have been to Mormon Island and Red Bank frequently. There was considerable mining done at these points, and they dumped their tailings into the river. The river is filled up to the depth of a great many feet at Negro Bar. The water as it passes under the bridge is ten or twelve feet higher than it was in 1857. The first bridge passes under the bridge is ten or twelve feet higher than it was in 1857. The first bridge was built in 1857. The present bridge, I think, was built in 1863. Negro Bar was a lively place in 1854. There were about 300 men engaged in mining there from 1851 to 1854. About 175 acres of Negro Bar have been mined away. On the Folsom side the bank was about forty feet high. From the bluff on the south side to the bluff on the north side at the widest part including the north side, at the widest part, including the river-bed, it is about a mile wide. More debris has been deposited at Folsom in the last ten years than in the ten years before. Don't know what part of it came from the wash of the Natema ditches.

(Fo Mr. Hart)—The acres on Negro Bar were mined out in the early days by "long toms," not by hydraulicking. The mining began there in 1850, and ceased long before 1862, and the earth thus loosened was all washed away then. The bar is now washed away then. The bar is now FILLED UP some ten or twelve feet higher than it originfrom above. The people at Folsom don't use the river water for drinking. It is not fit for ordinary domestic purposes, washing or cooking. They have better water than river water, but wouldn't use it if the river water water have a learn was clear.

Mrs. Lincoln's Insufficient Income. CHICAGO, November 28th .- A correspond ant of the Tribune, writing from New York of Mrs. Abraham Lincolv, says:

I spent two hours with Mrs. Lincoln this afternoon, the conversation turning mainly upon the subject now uppermost in her mind and which has during the past week received and excited a certain amount of criticismwhich is the possible increase of her pension by Congress. Mrs. Lincoln says she has felt much grieved to hear that the people of Illinois have given expression to such statements as have found their way into the Press conas have found their way into the Frees con-cerning her, and she knows full well the par-ticular source from which these reports have emanated, and the personal feelings which have prompted them. This Government, she says, owes it to her to see that she is provided for in a manner that her wents may be fully met and there that her wants may be fully met, and there is no reason why she should not receive the same consideration at the hands of the nation that may be contemplated for another, not on her own account so much as an act of justice to the memory of a man to whom this nation owes a great debt of gratitude—Abraham Lincoln.

So far as her present financial condition is concerned, Mrs. Lincoln says most positively that she has not enough from the Government to maintain her. She is under expenses, ment to maintain her. She is under expenses, medical and otherwise, which are large, no matter how simply she may live; and as for being a charity subject on the hands of her relatives, she will never consent to that. Some had criticised her son Robert because he did not take care of her. She did not desire to have him do so, for he had his own family to look after, and had his hands are large. 35,000 ties had been floated down the Navarroriver some six miles for shipment at its mouth.—[Mendocino Beacon.

Sworn (to Mr. Cadwalader)—I live fourteen miles from Sacramento, about one-third of a mile from the American river. Part of my farm runs down to the river. Been there since 1853. Farmed from 1857-58. Came to California in 1849. Campad on the American river and her necessities compelled her to decline to accupon his urgent advice. She had always endeavored to live frugally, and when in since 1853. They discovered her colt entangled in a drift in the river, only its head being visible.

Perhaps one of the most extraordinary signs of the times, illustrating the unhappy and unhealthy condition of things in th Russian Empire, is the recent institution of a secret society, for which the model and precedent must be sought rather in the Middle Ages than in the actual nineteenth century. This new society is known as the Swiataia Droujina, or Holy Brotherhood, its object being to protect the person of the Emperor, and to maintain the existing order in the form of autocratic rule spondent for some time and remarked a few weeks since to associates that he would put himself "out of the way one of these times." He was formerly at work in his father's shop, and told a friend on Sunday that he had got his tools at the shop again and should go to work yesterday. He was about 20 years of age. He had drank several times yesterday but was said not to be intoxicated, and between 12 and 1 o'clock in the afternoon went to the drug store of J. J. Spieker, at the corner of Sixth and K streets, and asked for some strychnine, which he wanted, he said, to kill rats. To avoid suspicion, he followed his remark of calling for it by saying: "The place where our shop is used to be a restaurant, you know, before we had our shop there, and the rats have pestered us to death ever since we have been there." The clerk to whom he applied used commendable care in the matter of selling the poison, and suggested that as strychnine was so dangerous to have around, that he use phosphorus paste, which he recommended as very effective for the purpose of killing rats, and took down a box to show him. George took the box in his hand and looked at it as if to decide whether he would take it, and then remarked, "I guess I will take the strychnine, as we always use that and are used to it." The clerk knew the applicant perfectly well, and having no reason to distrust anything wrong, sold him a daahm vial of strychnine, entering the name of the buyer and for what purpose it, was bought upon his records, as entering the name of the buyer and for what purpose it was bought upon his records, as was taking poison cannot be ascertained, as he is a "crank" of the most pronounced he is a "crank" of the most pronounced he is a "crank" of the most pronounced buildings, etc.)

THE RAINFALL.-It commenced raining yesterday morning about 2 o'clock and continued in a gentle fall until about noon. The storm was general upon all the lines of railroad leading to this city and upon the mountains. The weather was warm and threatening at midnight, with wind still in the south. Sergeant Barwick reports that the total rainfall for the 24 hours ending last evening, and for the storm, was .23 of an inch. Total rainfall for season to date, 2.68 inches; for season of 1877 to corresponding date, 1.70 inches; in 1878, 1.35 inches; in 1879, 2.39 inches; in 1880, .05 of an inch. TRAINS OFF TIME. - In consequence of the smash-up near Cape Horn, night before last caused by a wheel under a freight car breaking, an account of which is given in the telegraphic columns, all the trains were off time yesterday. The passengers and mail which should have reached here from the East at 6:55 yesterday morning did not arrive here until 1:45 P. M., and left for San Francisco soon after 2 P. M. The Southern express was held until this train arrived. The emigrant train due here yesterday afternoon at 2:30 did not reach here until 11:30 last night. The wreck was cleared so that trains could pass, at about 6 o'clock ast evening, and all passing the point before that hour, of passengers, mail, etc., was done by transfer. All trains were running regular again last evening. The Eastern express last evening arrived from the bay about half an hour late, on account of waiting for the Australian mail. It was storming in the mountains at midnight, but the overland from the East was on time and expected to arrive here

Now I favored Mr, Felter's proposition to ignore any political move in making up a ticket, and allow the patrons o the schools an opportunity to select Di-rector to serve who were known to favor a liberal course of studies, and at the same time to select men, who had the entire confidence of the people of Sacramento; this is what was needed; the people demanded it. Now, what has been the consequence of this awakening in the line of public interest? The Republican City Committee met and nominated a full ticket; and they evidently, before making the nominations, had studied the situation and come to the unanimous conclusion that if the majority of the committee favored the old plan of making the nominations, that the ticket so nominated must be unexceptionable—men of character, and pledged to maintain and bring the public schools up to a higher standard than they had been of late. The nominations are good. No citizen—Democrat or Republican—can or should object to the mittee met and nominated a full or Republican—can or should object to the ticket, from Dr. Laine for City Superintendent down to Felix Tracy for Fourth Ward Director. It is the best ticket from top to bottom that has been presented to us for many years, and there is no need of looking any further for men better qualified to fill the wants that requirements of the school depart wants and requirements of the school department; and it is to be hoped that this election will result in the unanimous choice of the ticket that has been presented by the Republican Committee. The Democrats have met and adjourned without making nominations, thus virtually acknowledging that they have a better required. no better names to present to the people than the ticket now before them, and so did the Fourth Ward call end last week.

WASHINGTON, November 28th,-The Criminal Court-room was densely crowded this morning. At 10 o'clock Mrs. Scoville resumed her testimony. She described Guiteau's actions during his visit to her in 1878. and said that she was then convinced that he was insane and should be put in the asylum.

Frequent objections were raised by the counsel for the prosecution to the character of the questions propounded by Scoville, and continuous discussion ensued between the

On being asked by Scoville to explain what he meant by saying that his brother was morally responsible, and that he was under the influence of the devil, witness explained the peculiar belief of his brother as to the counter influence of Christ and the devil, which were being exercised upon mankind, and that one or the other always gained the ascendency. He agreed with his father, and helieved at the same time that his brother had, through his intense egotism and willfulness, surrenand, that being a free moral agent, he was morally responsible to God for his crime. That was his understanding of his responsi-

"A bright, sharp looking customer came in one day and said: 'I am from Onio, and have a commission to buy some goods for my sister, who is about to be married there.' He picked out a bill of $500 worth of various articles, and said, 'Just send them around to my store in Broadway at 12 o'clock,' naming a well-known carpet store in Broadway. The goods were sent by a clerk, who found the customer ap-parently engaged in showing carpets, and

He said he was with his wife and child at the St. Nicholas Hotel, and wanted to buy some watches and jewelry, for which he would pay cash. He said his wife was too sick to leave the hotel, and wanted the goods sent with the bill. The ieweler thought he would make a sure thing of it and take the goods himself. He went to the St. Nicholas, was told that Mr. Dumas was stopping there, and was shown to his room. Mr. Dumas was busy writing, but welcomed the jeweler cor-

"The jeweler, in a moment of weakness, consented. After waiting five minutes he began to get nervous. He did not like to disturb a sick lady, but went to the office to make some inquiries. There he found that Mr. Dumas had just stepped out, and had no wife or child in the house. He was finally caught, after he had played the same game on a number of other jew-elers, and lodged in Sing Sing. When he was captured he tried to conciliate his last victim by the presentation of a beautiful

The Mormon leaders, however, seem to have little fear of what Congress may do under the circumstances. Their corruption fund is large enough, they claim, to control Congress in the future, as it has in the past. The immense wealth of the Church is deemed sufficient to accomplish any end much hope upon the future. The real wealth of the Church is not known, but it priests to the people for more tithes inditure for cash, and plenty of it. It is safe to say that unless the opposition to admission takes something of the nature of a popular wave, the Mormon Church can place enough money at the disposal of their Washington lobbyists to defeat any legislation attempted. From time to time men have been sent to Washington to put the evils of polygamy squarely before Congressmen, but these Gentile agents were never able to make the slightest headway against the money which the Mormons could throw into the breach at a moment's notice.

One of the shrewdest and boldest tricks ever played on a jeweler was done by a woman of nerve in Cincinnati not long ago. One day a middle-aged woman, of ine personal appearance, well dressed, and of most attractive manners, called at a private lunatic asylum and asked to see the Superintendent. There was a time when batches of plump, fair-haired, round-limbed girls came to Salt Lake by way of these trains, and were immediately taken up by the lecherous Elders to stock the household harems. This, however, is a thing of the past, and for the surface of the Welsh, and Scandinavian population, the refuse of the work-shops and parish poor-houses, is about all that the missionary can scrape up. IN HIS NATIVE ELEMENT.

To see the Mormon in his native wilds one must leave Salt Lake and spend a week in the southern portion of Utah, about Provo and San Pete. In Salt Lake the better class of Mormons live. Some are wealthy, and strangers who are entertained by them notice their elegant houses and sumptuous style of living. These are the heads of the Church, the men who fatten off of the tithes, but the tithe-payers represent the rank and file and are never seen by the casual visitor to Utah, unless the visitor happens to be on hand at Con-ference time. The Mormons living in the vicinity of the places mentioned are little better than savages. Each old farmer has four or five wives, who eat and sleep in houses of but two or three rooms, in a state almost bordering on barbarism. In these miserable shanties there is not the slightest evidence of refinement-nostruments, no magazines or periodicale, and nothing, in fact, but pork, corn, rheumatic furniture and tattered bed quilts. Here children grow up in dirt, wretchedness and ignorance; without any more knowledge of the outside world than the cattle they drive to water in the morning. In these districts the Mormons have it all to themselves, and the towns they inhabit In Utah is directly at variance with the look like deserted mining camps. Some Easily Constructed Articles for Holiday Presents-Home Handiwork-Etc.

As gifts are valued by the true friend more for the giver than for the intrinsic value of the gift; and as a token of esteem which has engaged the personal labor of the giver more than outlay from the donor's purse, is most valued by the recipient, the lady readers of the RECORD-UNION who contemplate marking the season of good will by exchange of presents will be interested in the following account of home-made gifts and how to make them. A second chapter on the subject will be given next week, touching articles of a somewhat different order.

Art needlework as applied to home decoration is the fashionable craze of the day. All manner of pretty trifles are pop-ular, and the room looks barren which does not include some of them among its

TRIFLES.

The many trifles manufactured of gilt and silver card-board look especially well upon the Christmas tree. Hairpin cushions, photograph-holders, cigar-cases, catch-alls, air-castles, intended for orna ment only, or for use as pin cushions; all these are decorative and easily made. For the match-safes there are many patterns, the best of which is, perhaps, the double safe—two boat-shaped receptacles, one above the other, for matches and burat ends respectively. Time come for these, and the card-board must be cut to cover them. These covers are ornamented with needlework or scrap pictures, and the affair is suspended by a ribbon. Tins for whisk-holders are covered in the same way, fuished with ribbon quillings and with satin or silk at the bottom to match. Splint work is also used for these, and is very effective when prettily embroidered. Such a holder makes an acceptable present to either a lady or gentleman. CIGAR HOLDERS.

Empty mustard or spice boxes form a good foundation for cigar holders. The card board is cut to fit and decorated to taste. The bottom-of cardboard—is sewed in, and quilled ribbon hides the join and finishes the case. A ribbon is sewed to the sides and forms the handle. The same case may be hung on the gas bracket and used for lighters. In this case the tapers should be made and the holder filled before giving the present. Newspaper holders are pretty and easily The frames for these are sold at fancy stores and are merely wooden or papier-mache backs, with slits through which the straps pass. There are two of these straps of strong canvas, bound with ribbon and worked in point Russe or cross stitch. These straps hold the newspapers and may be let out or taken up as desired.

Baskets of all kinds are popular, and are variously decorated. Open wicker baskets are still in great favor for pocket just large enough for a thimble, waste baskets. They are decorated with lambrequins made of cloth, velvet or sateen. When this last named material is used, cretone flowers may be transferred to the being both useful and easy to manufacture her own handiwork.

WASTE-PAPER BASKETS. The small waste-paper baskets, which can be purchased in plain white wicker, painted black and gilded by the purchaser, have now been adopted as flower-pot covers, and very elegant ones they make with their square gilded handles standing up and the two small rings hanging down as ornaments on either side. They can be decorated in many ways and take painting with great effect. An especially elegant one was stained black, gilded and painted, with a wreath of large sunflowers in oils round the sides. Another method savors of the Japanesque. It is to paint a spray of flowers or a branch of fruit drooping from one of the handles at one side only. USE FOR HATS

Englishwomen are adapting the tall silk hats worn by gentlemen for waste paper baskets and work baskets. These hats when dismissed by their wearers are usually only about a quarter worn, as no one will wear a "shock-When decorated and beautified, they form really a useful and pretty novelty. The best way of making them up is to embroider the straight piece around the hat first; cut out a circle for the top, which will not need decoration, as it is not seen then sew these on the hand to be a great boon.

WALL POCKETS. The cheap Yeddo hats so much worn last summer are made into "wall-pockets," or hanging-baskets. The outside is brushed all over with gold or black paint and allowed to dry thoroughly; the inside of the brim is lined with satin, and a bag top is put in the crown, which is drawn up with cords and tassels. Then the brim of the hat is turned up on one side and a bunch of dried grasses and artificial flowers is placed there, or for this may be substituted a bow of ribbon matching the lining. The bag is hung against the wall, turned with the hat outside

WORK-BASKETS AND CATCH-ALLS. Very petty work-baskets may be made of strawberry baskets, lined with red Turkey twill or satin, the lining forming a bag which draws up at top with a ribbon, and when open turns down over the basket. Two ockets are set in opposite sides of the basket (iuside, of course), and a needle-book and straps for holding scissors, thimble, etc., are fastened to the others.

Pretty catch-alls are made of the Yeddo reed cuffs worn by chemists. For these they are embroidered in long stitches with colored wools, or are decorated with applique figures. A bag bottom is added and the edges are finished with quilled ribbon. Slippers of the same material, lined and ned, are used for tiny wall-pockets.

BLOTTING-BOOKS. Blotting-books are easily made and also very useful. Stiff crash in two thicknesses makes a good back for one of these. Cut the stripe nine inches wide and sixteen in Work the outer one in crossstitch with the monogram of the person for whom it is intended just where it will come in the center of the upper lid of the book. Bind the edges with scarlet woolen braid, or with ribbon, so as to hold the pieces together. More elegant blotters are of satin or velvet, made in the same way. braid, or with ribbon, so as to hold the pieces together. More elegant blotters are of satin or velvet, made in the same way.

Double the back through the middle, like the back of a book, and work two button-holes lengthwise in the crease. Out the death of Prince Albert, the Queen has been to see a play. A stage was arranged leaves, and fasten in by a ribbon passed in through one buttonhole and out at the other, through the paper, and tied at the other, through the paper, and tied at the back in a bow. Embroidery may be substituted for the monogram, if desired, or etching. For this last a design from Kate Grunaway's "Under the Willow" or from "Mother Goose," etc., looks well. If you cannot draw, have the design stamped and mark the line over with India ink; or, work the pattern in outline stitch in color to match the binding.

POCKET CASE. A useful present, also, is a little case to be carried in the pocket when traveling, containing scissors, comb, pins, needles, black and white cotton (on flat winders), sticking-plaster, stamps, button-hook and thimble. This may be made of enameled cloth or leather, with loops of elastic arranged on it in such a manner that it will fold into a little packet about the size of a letter and only a little thicker. A useful present, also, is a little case to

TEA COSIES-SIDE BAGS. Tea cosies grow in popularity, and are at once pretty and useful. They are made in cap shape to cover the teapot, and, as their mission is to keep the tea hot, must be warmly wadded and lined. Quilted silk, satin or merino are the materials most used for them, but some are daintily embroidered or hand painted.

The fashionable side bags will figure largely as Christmas presents this year. Those most liked are the flat bags, with plated rims and with catches and chain. Others are in reticule shape, plain or embroidered, and some are exquisitely handpainted in floral designs.

PINCUSHIONS AND FANS. Pincushions are legion. The handsomest are of plush. Next comes silk or satin, so beautifully embroidered or painted that, as a lady said of one such, "it would be a sin to stick a pin in it."

Fans also appear among fashionable fancy work. A five-cent Japanese fan with long handle forms the foundation. This is covered with satin, embroidered painted or trimmed with lace and flowers. Some have a butterfly, others have a humming bird in a nest of lace, and all are finished with satin ribbon. PEN-WIPERS.

Pen-wipers pass enumeration. The new est are in form of a miniature tea-cosy, the cosy lined by stiff card and filled in with strips of cloth, or, better yet, with ends of black worsted. The outside should be prettily worked. Another new pen wiper imitates a shawl strap. To make this the cloth may be arranged in three different colored rolls-for instance, red, blue and gray—and padded by odd scraps until about half an inch in diameter. Form small straps of enameled cloth, similar to those used for shawls, and fasten the tiny luggage together. A few threads of goldolored silk will represent the buckles. Another style is a small cup stuffed tight with a tassel of black wool; indeed, there is no limit to the forms which this neces sary appendage to a writing-table may as-

FOR THE DRESSING TABLE. Very useful on the dressing table are the little baskets of three or four inches in diameter, just large enough to hold a spool of black cotton, one of white, a thimble, needle-book and a tiny pair of scissors The holder is to be hung on the wall, and Baskets of this kind are to be had resting forms a most ornamental adjunct to a study on three legs, and may, with a little patience and ingenuity, be made exceedingly pretty as well as useful. They should be carefully lined with a little gray-colored silk or satin, and should have a small center of each vandyke and finished with silk or crewels round the edge; small tassels finish the points. The smaller sizes have now been adopted as work-baskets, for which were adopted. A little for which purpose they are lined with Tur. | cord round the edge of the basket is a key red, and the lining coming up beyond great improvement and finish. Such are the top is used as a bag and gathered up with drawing-strings. These, however, Christmas presents for those who will value are not new, but they deserve mention, as the gift as part of the giver, because it is

Heinrich Botel is the name of a new tenor who has just appeared in Hamburg, and the lethargic opera-goers of that sleepy town show symptoms of enthusiasm about him. Like Wachtel, he was a hack-driver, when the director of the opera in Hamburg discovered and had him educated music-A Boston theater is to have a stage made in sections on rollers, so that while one scene is before the audience another is being arranged out of sight, thus doing away with tedious intermissions between acts, and making it possible to show a greater amount of elaborate scenery than can be done by the ordinary method.

A hypercritical Marseilles audience desired to express its admiration for Sara deigned to express its admiration for Sara Bernhardt's Dona Sol, after a more than cold reception of "Dame aux Camellias," in which actor Angelo was hissed. Bernhardt herself was hissed at Amiens, whereupon she remarked to the audience, "I am not accustomed to play to geese." Music in social intercourse is a fine awakener of sympathies, and a fine uniter of them. A good musical instrument, a violin, a piano-forte, or organ, is often not less needed to soothe the ruffled spirit of a company than the harp of David was to calm down the fiend in the turbulent breast

Immense Excitement

SHERIFF'S SALE OF J. P. CILMAN'S STOCK.

The city merchants were on the spot early, each determined to take the prize, but when the gavel dropped, and the Sheriff sang out "SOLD TO Mr. J. T. GRIFFITTS." there was astonishment and consternation depicted on every countenance. They had missed their opportunity; they evidently thought that the Sheriff would sleep on it a little, and when the all-telling word, "SOLD," rang out upon the sharp frosty air, it sounded like a knell to departed hope. It seems unaccountably strange that the shrewd merchants of our city should have allowed the Court Receiver to pluck the prize from their grasp
